

Lest We Forget the Massacres

“Our collective memory always tends toward amnesia and erasure, especially of periods scared by civilization’s shame.” Maria Popova

These massacres keep happening and we are shocked and then forget. We let the gun rights movement block any meaningful changes to keep these events from reoccurring.

The red stripes on the flag are bleeding and the automatic weapon keeps shooting.
The numbers of dead from massacres are piled up against the flag like dead bodies.

The places where the largest massacres have taken place between 1984 and 2020, are listed on star field on the flag.
