Artist Statement

Connections can be made in many different ways. Art is a powerful medium that has the ability to bring people together. My impressionistic work is drawn from my intuitive ability to observe people and interpersonal interactions. Having this acute sense of awareness allows me to share the human experience we all desire in this life...connection. My sculptures highlight this fascination with the fleeting moment and seek to capture its energy with thought provoking details.

My work, which is largely figurative, explores my relationship with color, texture, and the human form. I use my observational skills daily to draw inspiration for my creativity. The moment we connect with another person can be captured and artistically cultivated into a piece of art that stirs the emotions and intrigues the viewer. This conversation is vital to our daily relationship with each other.

I currently work with clay, metal, wood, and many other organic mediums. From soft and smooth glazes to the rougher texture of raw clay, every layer creates a tone and vitality to the forms that evolve. Every sculpture is unique, just like every precious moment of our daily experience.
