Terri Bianco

Artist – Writer – Coach

I suppose I've always been creative. In Kindergarten, I was sent home with a note for getting up during "reading" to go finish my finger painting. I went on to a career designing and delivering leadership training as well as life and executive coaching. I am a published author and an artist.

In my art, I look to what invites my attention, what catches my soul. I portray peaceful rural scenes, atmospheric landscapes, and offer a refreshing look at the whimsy of life.

Art has taken my heart and my passion. I've recently launched a creative coaching practice with a goal of unleashing creativity in myself and in others. Born in Chicago, I have lived and worked in Paris, San Francisco, San Diego, and Nevada City, California. I now live in Sacramento with my puppy Scout.
