

Tara Esperanza

In 2017, Tara Esperanza was commissioned to make a large painting of particular succulents. Though at the time she had not paid much attention to succulents, she was a plant lover. As a result of the commission, she began paying closer attention to succulents on daily dog walks and runs. This quickly became an obsession and from there her series was born. She realized that she had passed many gorgeous plants for years and never noticed their obvious beauty. Her paintings look deep into the plants and offer a new perspective. Tara shares her intimate viewpoint of succulents through her art.