Betsy Kendall has been painting the landscape and fellow creatures in and around Berkeley since 1989. The child of an artist mother, she trained at Mills and San Francisco State.

“For me, direct experiences are more surprising and exciting than imaginary ones. They pass through the action of painting to become the fresh embodiment of a moment.”
