

JUDITH GANZ

BIO

Judith Ganz has always been captured by narrative.

When Judith was a child navigating the New York City subways, she imagined other strap-hangers' lives, pictured them at work, visualized what they did for fun. Later, as a third-grade teacher, Judith created experiential learning curricula using visual arts and storytelling. And then as a lawyer writing briefs to the appellate courts, Judith used descriptive language to bring her clients to life.

Retired from word craft, enriched by years of stories and visual NYC memories, inspired by the urban landscape of her Oakland, California hometown, Judith's photography preserves a moment of time, place, person.

Judith honed her craft by attending classes at Laney College and Berkeley City College for the past eight years and continues to learn and be inspired as part of the BCC photo community.

Among Judith's exhibits are:

Studio 41, Sawtooth Building, Berkeley: Mother's Day Exhibition (May 2023)

Berkeley City College: Multi-Media Showcases (May 2022; May 2023)

DeYoung Open 2020: "Safe"

DeYoung Open 2023: "Stepping Up" (9/30/23-1/7/24)

(I donate 10% of all proceeds to the Alameda County Community Food Bank)
