Making Your Mark, April 11 – May 10, 2026, Mark Eanes, Juror
A drawing, painting or sculpture expresses meaning much like a language. While the foundation of language is the synthesis of letters into words and sentences, the foundation of each artwork starts with a mark. More marks are added until you get a final image or shape. What makes a piece of art unique is that special way the artist makes their mark. What that means is that every mark, brushstroke, or manipulation of material an artist makes is wholly unique to that person. Like a signature or handwriting, the execution of that mark flows naturally and reflects the identity of the artist both physically and emotionally.

Art of a Community 2026, June 6 – July 19, 2026
2026 exhibition, the annual members-only show features artwork by our artist members and showcases the talent of our regional artists.

We, The Makers, August 15 - September 27, 2026, Sylvia Hughes-Gonzales and Ebtisam Shedid, Jurors
What happens when artists give up sole artistic control and ownership of an artwork in favor of expanding the creative process? There are benefits and challenges to collaboration. The process can bring surprise, joy, ambiguity, compromise, communication, frustration; all ending in an agreeable finishing point. Working together to combine perspectives and art practices, we create something that could not have been created alone. Inviting artists to submit fully realized collaborative artwork made by two or more artists.
